

ABSTRACT

There is a peculiarity that a few banks that as of now utilize computerized banking and during the Coronavirus can keep on working on their monetary execution, yet some others have encountered a decrease in monetary execution during the Coronavirus. This underlies the lead of this review. Thusly, the objective of this exploration is to look at the productivity of computerized banking in banks exchanged on the Indonesia Stock Trade, involving the Coronavirus time frame as a directing variable. All banks exchanging on the IDX somewhere in the range of 2016 and 2021 comprise the review's populace. The all out populace in the line study added up to 45 keeps money with an all out example of 22 banks. Purposive examining was utilized for this investigation. Conventional speculation testing, different relapse, and theory testing are the scientific approaches utilized here. This exploration shows that the reception of computerized banking adversely affects return on resources (ROA). Speculation execution, as estimated by return on value (ROE), is unaffected by the ascent of advanced banking. The connection between's computerized banking and return on resources (ROA) during the Coronavirus time frame has debilitated. The relationship between's web based banking and return on value (ROE) is hearty and unaffected by the Coronavirus skyline.

Keywords : Digital banking; Financial performance; Covid-19