

ABSTRACT

The purpose of this research is to examine the influence of company growth, capital structure, and profitability on company value.

This research examines sub-sector companies of Construction and Infrastructure Companies Listed on the Indonesia Stock Exchange 2018-2022 with a total sample of 45 companies. Sampling is based on the purposive sampling method by following certain criteria. The analysis method used is Multiple a Linear Regression.

The research results show that company growth has a significant effect on company value, capital structure has a significant positive effect on company value, profitability has no effect on company value.

Keywords: Company growth, capital structure, profitability, company value.