

ABSTRACT

The purpose of this research is to analyze the effect of good corporate governance, firm size, firm growth, and firm profitability on firms dividend policy and make the result of the reseach to be a considered by any investment activity by investors.

This research uses the anual report documentation on moneytary company listed in Indonesia Stock Exchange (BEI) in 2012-2014. In order to take a sample, it uses purposive sampling methods. After the process, there is 97 samples from 228 firms. To test the hypotheses, this reseach uses multiple regression analysis.

The result of this research shows there is a positive effect and significant between good corporate governance which is measured by TDI and profitability measured by ROE to firm's dividend policy. This reseach also found firm size and firm growth affects dividen policy negatively but not significant.

Keywords: good corporate governance, firm size, firm growth, profitabilitas, dividend policy.