

ABSTRACT

One of indicator of economic growth is Gross Domestic Regional Product. The highest GDRP in central Java is Semarang city. Semarang's small Medium Enterprise (SME) is one of the contributor toward is's GDRP. Nowadays the SME numbers in Semarang are rapidly growing. Numbers of support and programs already given by the government to support SME'S.

The purpose of this research is to analyze the effect of course and training such as Capital Support for Small and Medium Enterprises in Semarang towards the revenue of SMEs. The variable from this research in Course, Trainng, capital support program as independent variable and the revenue of SME's as dependent variable.

Tis research used analytic description. Data gathered by observations and interviews with SMEs Businessman. This research continued by elaborating interviews into determined variable and identify the variables to use it as research analytic technique. The total of data is 97, determined by Slovin Formula. Chi square been used.

The result of this research showing that Chi Square has 26.613 in valuation with 0.035 in probability, and can be concluded that course and training have positive and significant impact toward SME's revenue based on 38.143 Chi Square with 0.001 probability.

Keywords: Trainings, capital support, SME's revenue, Chi Square test.